

Your scan is complete with red, green and blue dot indicators in each column corresponding to what was tested. Please note the following on how to read your report.

1

Ignore the three columns to the far right as they contain eliminated false positives.

2

Focus on the three columns to the far left. These are your true readings.

3

Green indicates a balanced reading, blue is low, and red is high. The only exception is in the amino acids section. These rows contain green (sufficient), and red (deficient) indicators.

4

The interpretations of these columns are briefly explained in this wellness report. They are not specific to one category but are analyzed and evaluated by “patterns” and “trends” as seen throughout the report and summarized accordingly.

5

No testing instrument is ever 100% accurate, including pregnancy and blood tests. With that in mind, our Practitioner is looking for patterns that leave clues of dysfunction (metabolic, toxicity, digestive, stress, hormonal, neurological, etc.), not one specific result.

YOUR HEALTH JOURNEY

Picture your health journey as if it were a house taking on rain, with leaks in the roof. First, we stop the rain by eliminating toxins and lifestyle choices that are detrimental to our overall health. Then we repair the roof, because you can't fix the roof while it's still raining.

Then we mop up the mess (detoxification), and finally, decorate the house by improving systems within the body for maximum benefit and performance. Most want to decorate the house first because that's the fun part. We want more energy, less belly fat, better cognitive function, less brain fog, and a stronger sex drive. These things will improve naturally when we stop the rain, repair the roof, and clean up the residual imbalances.
